My Why

Those magical 'light bulb' moments define why I choose to be a teacher, and I love helping my students to be their best selves. My passion is in the classroom – a place where no two days are ever the same. I thrive on making learning accessible to all students by developing a high level of background knowledge, whilst expanding students' perspectives and understandings of the world around them. I also place a high value on kindness and a sense of belonging in the classroom.

My Work History

Initially a Registered Nurse, my favourite part of nursing quickly became the teaching of new nurses. With most of my family being in education, teaching was a natural transition. I have taught in a wide variety of contexts in remote, regional and metro schools. I am passionate about literacy, particularly working with students who find reading challenging. I also love the challenge of working with students who thrive on extension above their grade level. In addition to my classroom role, I have assisted with leading literacy at the whole-school level, including the development and coaching of teachers.

A Bit About Me

Born in Victoria, but raised in Tasmania, I am from a large close-knit family. I am married to Leon and together we have a son (12) and daughter (10). Our family loves to travel and enjoys all things outdoors, including the beach, fishing and camping. When I am not working, you will find me at my children's various sporting pursuits, visiting family and friends or curling up with a good book.

I look forward to working with the families of Gooellal Primary School to develop happy, thriving students.
